WOMEN ORDERED TO LEAVE TOWN

The Thirty-One Unfortunates Caught in Sheriff's Raid Are Given Floaters.

The thirty-one women taken by the sheriff's deputies in the stockade raid on Friday night were given "floaters" when arraigned before Stanley A. Hanks, justice of the peace, at a special session of court held in the county jail yesterday afternoon, and by Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock all of them promised to be out of the city. Should any of the number be picked up after that time, they will be rearrested and returned to jail to await further prosecution.

The decision of Justice Hanks in giving the prisoners "floaters" was thought by them to be light punishment, considering the fact that they were under a bond of $750 each, failure to furnish which would keep them in jail for an indefinite period. This action was concluded upon after a conference between Justice Hanks, Attorney King, representing the defense, and P. T. Farnsworth of the prosecution. In order to make this action possible it was necessary for Farnsworth to amend the original complaint to the charge of vagrancy. On the latter charge the prisoners could be given "floaters." Fifteen of the women were arraigned separately, all pleading guilty to vagrancy, and after their cases were disposed of Justice Hanks ordered the remaining sixteen brought from Murray, and heard their pleas of guilty, after which they with the others were released on their own recognizance.

Going through exactly the same procedure as on the previous day, Belle London, or Mrs. Dora Topham, charged with owning premises resorted to for immoral purposes, was arraigned in Justice Timpson's court yesterday afternoon, and was bound over to continuing bond of $500 to await the action of the district court. The same disposition had been made of a similar case against her on Friday, except that the particular complaint was based upon her ownership of a different piece of property. She did not appear in person, but was represented by her attorney.

PROVO COUNCIL SESSION.

Petition Presented Asking That No Liquor Licenses Be Granted After December 31st of This Year.

Provo, June 19.—At the meeting of the city council last evening a representative of the Nat. Re. Carnival company asking for a reduction of their license for the reason that their business was bad, was referred to the committee on license.

The Provo Recreation association asked the privilege of crossing the city's waterworks pipe line at the mouth of Provo canyon. Referred to the committee on waterworks.

A subcommittee of the Prohibition committee presented a petition asking that no liquor licenses be granted after December 31st of this year.

A similar petition was presented by the board of trustees of the Brigham Young university. Both petitions were referred to the judiciary committee and the city attorney, with instructions to call a convention of county and city officials of the county with a view to having uniform prohibition legislation through the county.

Fifty dollars was appropriated to Fletcher City to assist in paying expenses of a bond suit, which gave Provo City some valuable information in the matter of bond issue.

Fire Chief Armstrong asked for another sprinkler, as the three sprinklers were not enough to give good service. He also suggested that a pipe line be run in from the East Union canal to the cemetery in order to facilitate the obtaining of water and other suggestions relative to sprinkling were made. Referred to appropriate committees.

Mr. Armstrong also asked for additional hose and for a heater for the fire engine. Referred to the committee on fire department.

The committee on waterworks recommended that John Bestelmeyer be paid one-half of the cost of a private water pipe line and that the city take control of the pipe line. Adopted.

The matter of appropriating money for the entertainment of the R. R. veterans was brought up, the committee not having reported. The sense of the council seemed to be that the city should not send any money to the general committee, but to expend whatever money was needed to entertain G. A. R. veterans in Provo.

A resolution creating sidewalk paving extensions Nos. 3 in paving districts Nos. 19 and 11 was passed. Friday, July 16, was set as the time for hearing objections.

A GREEN GIRL.

(Judge.)

Miss Jeanette L. Gilder tells an odd story of a green serving maid.

"The maid had just come over from Ireland, and a Brooklyn woman engaged her. A bell hung in the girl's room, and the morning after her arrival her mistress rang the bell to get her up."

"But the maid did not get up, though the bell rang and rang. Finally, therefore, the mistress herself rose, and, slipping on a dressing gown, she hastened to the new servant's room."

"There, wide awake, the maid lay, laughing at the top of her lungs."

"What on earth are you laughing at, Nora?" said the mistress.

"Laughin' at that bell. As sure as Oi live Oi haven't touched it, an'—jest see—it's rangin' jill!"

Six years ago William Purcell, who was at that time a singer in a minstrel show, met Lida Spry, a beautiful girl, who was a member of a theatrical troupe. A friendship sprang up between the two during the short time they were playing in a New England town, but the engagements of the dancer to another girl, and his possession of a most charming voice, her solos at the graduating exercises were one of the many pleasing and enjoyable features.

William McEwan, who delivered the class paper, proved himself an orator of ability, and promises to take a leading part in this work at the High school in the next four years. Anna McDonald, line, and her recitations were enjoyed by the large audience who witnessed the graduating program. Grace Meade sang several solos in exquisite voice.
